will does not direct to the contrary—from the Trustee Act, 1925, or other statutory authority directly relating to their duties or responsibilities.

If there is any difficulty arising out of the trust or the trustee has committed any innocent breach, he can always go to the Court for directions or to the beneficiaries for an indemnity.

The subject of settled land trustees must be dealt with in another chapter.